Dear Dr. Karimzada,

I am very pleased by way of this letter to offer you a full-time regular term appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor in the School of Economics within the Faculty of Business and Economics. Your appointment will commence on January 1, 2025 and end on December 31, 2027. Your campus of primary responsibility will be Prince George, B.C.

Other terms of this appointment are as follows:

1. Your annual base salary will be $85,473, reflecting your recognized years of service and equivalent experience, and placing you at step one (1) of the salary grid. Your salary will be paid out bi-weekly.
2. You will receive vacation entitlement of 20 paid days per 12 months service.
3. As per Article 14.2.1.1, the duties of regular full-time appointments at your assigned rank normally include teaching, scholarly activity, and service. Your teaching assignment is (21) Semester Contact Hours (SCHs) which is approximately 70% of the overall duties for this position; 10% of your time will be spent on research activities and the remaining 20% of your time will be in service to the School at large. This distribution of duties may be revised at a later date based on agreement between you, your Chair and Dean.
4. You will be entitled to an annual Professional Development Allowance (PDA) of $1,680. The purpose of your PDA is to enhance your performance and skills in your university related professional and teaching duties and is governed by the conditions of Article 28 of the UNBC Faculty Association Collective Agreement.
5. You will receive an initial research start-up fund of $5,000. Your research start-up fund will be allocated to you subject to submission to the Dean of an approved research budget. Your research start-up fund is to be used to support establishing your research program at UNBC. Funds remaining at the end of your term or after 36 months from the date of appointment, whichever comes first, will be transferred back to the University's central funds.
6. Subsequent to your acceptance of this offer, a benefits package will be mailed to you by Sun Life Financial, and a Human Resources representative will contact you regarding an orientation to the University Pension Plan. You, your spouse and children will be entitled to one-hundred percent waiver of the tuition fees for eligible UNBC courses as governed by Article 50 of the UNBC Faculty Association Collective Agreement.

7. The University will also provide you with financial assistance, intended to relocate new faculty members to Prince George. This assistance is governed by Article 51 of the UNBC Faculty Association Collective Agreement and entitles you to reimbursement of up to a maximum of $5,000 towards actual expenses incurred upon presentation of actual receipts.

Your appointment is subject to the terms and conditions of the UNBC Faculty Association Collective Agreement as well as current and future UNBC policies and procedures. The Faculty Agreement will be re-negotiated from time to time and any changes to the Agreement will apply to you.

This offer of employment is subject to confirmation satisfactory to the University that you have received the academic degrees listed in your curriculum vitae.

I hope that you will accept our offer of employment by signing this letter and returning a signed copy to Sharanjit Kaur, HR Advisor - Faculty Relations, at sharan.kaur@unbc.ca. A copy should be retained for your own files. The University will need to receive your response to this offer of employment by no later than Friday, December 6, 2024, or you must request and receive an extension in writing from my office by this date.

Sincerely,

Dr. Ronald Camp II
Dean, Faculty of Business and Economics

I have read the foregoing offer of employment and wish to accept it.
